Colombo Theological Seminary

Resources to the Church for the Transformation of Nations

COURSE CATALOGUE

2023

Truth. Justice. Kindness. Accountability. Transparency. These have become the catchphrases in Sri Lanka. A deep hunger is developing in our island nation for the very values that have been the bedrock of God's Kingdom. Therefore, more than ever, the time is NOW, for disciples of Jesus, to be guiding lights in these dark and uncertain times.

the time is NOW for us, the Church, to be heard as a distinctive voice of hope amidst the clamour of hopelessness.

the time is NOW, for men and women, who are filled with the Holy Spirit, to revive our discouraged and disheartened communities with the best news the world has ever known!

Are you yearning to see a restored and healthy 'Paradise Isle'? God's Word promises that He will make all things new. At Colombo Theological Seminary, you will have the opportunity to be a part of a learning community that is passionate about being shaped by God's Word so that we, the Church, can be God's agent of transformation.

Come to CTS in 2023, and together let us make a 'System Change' that will make a lasting impact in our lifetime and beyond.

Philippians and Colossians

Paul's letters to the Philippians and Colossians are considered his most delightful and encouraging epistles. Paul uses these two letters to lavishly express his gratitude, praise, and commendation to his hearers. He also explains the deity of Christ, succinctly and clearly. Studying these two letters will help you to capture the most essential doctrinal teaching of Paul as well as to consider how to apply that teaching meaningfully in your daily living.

The Gospel of John

The course locates its context, authorship, date, and literary character in the Gospel of John. It then attempts to study the story of Jesus in three sections: the first part dealing with the public ministry of Jesus, where Jesus revealed his glory through the signs; the second part presenting Jesus' private ministry with the disciples; and the third part relating to his passion and resurrection, a revelation of his glory. Besides these, the course also pays close attention to the significant motifs such as sonship, Holy Spirit, mission, eschatology, and ethics that further highlight this Gospel's richness and set it apart from the Synoptic Gospels. Thus, this Gospel presents an opportunity for a child to wade and an elephant to swim in a stream. The concluding part of the course will also explore the contemporary relevance of John's Gospel.

Interpersonal Reconciliation in a Shame-Oriented Culture

We all know the distress and disruption caused by conflicts that are not properly resolved. Most of us react to conflict according to a conflict script, which we learn from our culture. This course explores aspects of honour-shame cultures, like Sri Lanka, that affect conflict and its resolution. It will further seek to discover how the New Testament, also written in an honour-shame culture, can help believers re-write their conflict script to become better peacemakers.

WEEKDAY COURSES ONSITE

South Asian Christianity and Its Global Impact

In recent years, there has been a major shift in Christianity with most Christians now residing in the Global South. What are the implications of this shift for Christians in South Asia? What challenges must we overcome as we move from being only a receiving Church to being a more giving and sending Church? This course will explore possible ways in which South Asian Christians can lead and contribute intentionally and responsibly to the life of the Global Church.

Creation and Ethics

God's Designs from the Beginning

The biblical story is a story of creation, fall, redemption and final consummation. Unfortunately, creation is often seen as the least important theological and ethical part of that story. This course will seek to show why creation is vital for Christian ethics, and demonstrate its significance in a wide range of contemporary ethical issues, drawing primarily from Genesis 1-2. Issues from the creation story include: the goodness of creation (i.e. money, sex, and power), human dignity from creation in God's image, creation care, marriage and sexuality, social institutions, human work, the ethical significance of the Sabbath, human finitude, and embodied souls (or ensouled bodies). We will conclude the course by discussion on how to live a Creation Ethic in a complex, fallen world.

Developing Christian Educators

One of the Church's core mandates is to equip all Christians to attain maturity (Ephesians 4:12-13). The two fields through which the Church fulfills this mandate are Christian education and theological education. Developing Christian Educators will provide foundations for any kind of teaching ministry in Christian churches and theological education. It will familiarise you with major theories pertaining to teaching, learning, and human development. It will also provide practical guidelines on how to develop effective educational programmes, formulate and articulate strategic learning objectives, and achieve outcomes that are biblically based, contextually appropriate, and life-transforming.

Multi-Cultural Counselling and Professional Ethics

This course is designed to prepare students to become ethical and effective multicultural counsellors. It emphasizes multicultural framework to develop competency in multicultural counselling; as well as knowledge and critical reflection to develop multiculturally-informed case conceptualizations and assessments. More generally, this course promotes the development of a broad mindset regarding culture, ethnicity, nationality, age, gender, sexual orientation, mental and physical characteristics, education, socioeconomic status, and religious and spiritual values that will lead to profound respect for the unique characteristics of individuals, couples, families, ethnic groups, and other communities. It also examines the principles and guidelines for professional counselling in general with application to ethical dilemmas and the application of professional ethics within society, the church and Christian community.

Biblical Interpretation

Christians believe the Bible is God's enduring Word to every generation. Yet, interpreting the Bible so that we 'rightly handle the word of truth' is a challenge. Biblical Interpretation looks at the different kinds of literature in the Bible including poetry, prophecy, story, and law and gives students principles for interpretation.

The Church and the End Times

What do we understand to be 'the Church'? Is it traditions, buildings, or forms of worship? How will the world as we know it end? The Church and the End Times will examine the key doctrines of ecclesiology and eschatology, and will strengthen you in your engagement in the Church and deepen your understanding of things to come. Take this course. Don't be left behind!

What is Human? A Biblical Perspective

'What is man that you are mindful of him?' (Ps 8:4). In the 21st century, gender identity, sexuality, AI, cyberspace, and transhumanism are challenging the very foundations of society. Moreover, new teachings in the Church – about the transformed nature of redeemed persons, the inherent authority of 'anointed' leaders, and 'dominion theologies' – are challenging the foundation of historic Christianity. This course will explore the Christian doctrine of humanity to construct a biblical-theological framework to these and other issues.

Developing Responsible Churches

1 and 2 Peter

The two letters of Peter deal with themes that are very relevant to Sri Lanka today: how to be a faithful Church in times of persecution and how to be a faithful Church in the face of false teachings. These twin dangers – persecution from without and error from within – threaten the Church of Sri Lanka today. Studying the letters of Peter will alert you to your responsibility and equip you to strengthen the Church.

Primeval History

Genesis 1-11

Primeval History: Genesis 1-11 is a narrative study of what is generally called 'Pre-History' – the account of the beginning of everything: creation and humans, sin and its effects, salvation history, languages, nations, etc. The course will entail a verse-by-verse reading of the text, in tandem with references to relevant ancient Near Eastern and West Asian literature and background. It will also discuss how today's Christians can best transpose the 'then and there' of the text to the 'here and now', so as to apply it in our communal and personal contexts.

Restoration

Are you yearning to see a restored and healthy Sri Lanka?
God's Word promises that
He will make all things new.
At Colombo Theological Seminary,
you will have the opportunity to be a part of a learning community that is passionate about being shaped by God's Word so that we, the Church,
can be God's agent of transformation.

Come to CTS in 2023,
and together let us make a 'System Change'
that will make a lasting impact
in our lifetime and beyond.
